Dodge Sign Company honored for philanthropic service at Reach for the Green golf tourney

(Westminster—Thursday, Sept. 19, 2019) A total of 178 golfers participated in the 39th Annual Reach for the Green Golf Tournament Tuesday, Sept. 10, at The Todd Creek Golf Course in Thornton raising more than $50,000 to support integrated mental health services offered by Community Reach Center.

During the tournament’s awards luncheon, the annual Donald C. Ciancio Philanthropic Award was presented to Dodge Sign Company and Wayne Dodge, steadfast supporters of Community Reach Center for 20 years. Dodge Sign Company consistently donates signage for all of Community Reach Center’s events, including the golf tournament, enabling Community Reach to increase the net amount raised at their fundraising events.

The proceeds for the Reach for the Green tournament will be used to help fund life changing therapy for uninsured children and adults at Community Reach Center. The organization provided more that $2 million in uncompensated care last year, thanks, in part, to the proceeds from the annual tournament.

“The weather was perfect for golf with a nice light breeze in the afternoon,” said Community Reach Center Event and Outreach Specialist Evan Narotsky. “We always enjoy the opportunity to rub elbows with the business community and thank them for their generous support. These tourneys inspire us in our mission to enhance the health of our community.”

The lowest score of the day in the scramble format, 50, was posted by the afternoon flight of Mike Snyder, James Wertz, Rob Webber and Brad Harvey. The top team of the morning was Paul Gregory, John Bungartz, Clarke Deloian and Josh Mikatich, with a score of 52. Other winners included afternoon: Ladies: Rachel Begler, Longest Drive, Longest Putt and Closest to the Pin; Men: James Wertz, Longest Drive; Greg Bell, Closest to the Pin; and Tim Dusseau, Longest Putt. For the morning flight: Yvonne Christow, Longest Putt; Amy Stumpf, Longest Drive; and men: Victor Avila, Longest Drive; Patrick Lynch, Longest Putt; and Kevin Bervik, Closest to the Pin.

The Reach for the Green Golf Tournament is dedicated to founding Community Reach Center supporters – the late Donald C. Ciancio and his mother, the late
Mary Ciancio. Launching the tournament in 1980 to honor his mother’s legacy as a mental health advocate, Donald C. Ciancio exhibited a “persuasive fundraising style” as a driving force behind the tournament’s success.

Adams County Commissioners, Allied Recycled Aggregate, Cigna, Horizons North Credit Union and St. Anthony North Health Campus were silver sponsors in a field of about 25 main sponsors, in addition to numerous silent auction donors, hole sponsors and in-kind contributors.

Community Reach Center is a top-tier non-profit behavioral health and wellness provider established in 1957 that serves people of all ages at seven outpatient offices and more than 100 community-based sites throughout Adams County, Colorado. The Center employs more than 500 highly skilled professionals committed to health and wellness, currently serving more than 22,000 individuals annually. Community Reach Center is a leading integrated care partner in Colorado – meaning that mental healthcare and primary medical care are provided in one location at clinics throughout the north Denver metro area.

Photo above at left: Top scoring team (50) was Mike Snyder, James Wertz, Rob Webber and Brad Harvey (not pictured). Second from the right is Evan Narotsky, Community Reach Center events and outreach specialist. Photo above at right: Community Reach Center employees Laura Thompson, Tiffany Johnson and Gina Hoylman were among volunteers for the event.